The military transports were assembled in Frankfurt/Oder and were made up of men going to Russia on furlough.

2. During the same period, i.e., between 30 January and 10 February, 66 empty trains returned from Russia and passed through Frankfurt/Oder on their way to Germany; six of the trains were accompanied by a total of approximately 300 soldiers who were equipped with small arms. In addition, the following westbound transports were observed:

Date	No. of Cars	Description of Transports
30 January	35	Prisoners of war, approx. 1500
31 January	29	Military personnel, approx. 800 - 900

7 February	30	Military personnel, approx. 450
8 February	32	Prisoners of war, approx. 1200
10 February	28	Military personnel, approx. 700

The military transports were made up of men returning from furlough in Russia.

3. On 17 January, the station Frankfurt/Oder was closed to all German civilians for several hours, and many RR employees were ordered from the station and RR yards. It was learned from RR employees who remained on their jobs that two military transports passed during this time through Frankfurt, each consisting of 50 to 60 cars. The troops, consisting of officers and EM, belonged to the infantry; neither artillery nor heavy weapons were observed. The military personnel was not permitted to leave the trains. The station was reopened to ordinary traffic as soon as the two trains had been dispatched; RR employees could not say, however, whether the trains had left in a westerly or in an easterly direction.
4. Between 3 and 15 February, the following eastbound transports passed through Zossen on their way to the border points Frankfurt/Oder and Kuestrin:

Date	No. of Cars	Description of Transports
3 February	26	Barracks parts
5 February	22	Plaster in barrels
7 February	22	Wooden houses
8 February	18	Timber
	16	Containers, approx. 1500, for chemicals
